Project 2: Snackpass Redesign

By: Amy Xu, Christy Quang, Shira Shabtian, Sophia Teng

User overview

Hungry college students looking for new food at low costs and friends.

Task overview

Ordering lunch from a new restaurant with a “party”.

- Finding a new restaurant from maps or discovery pages→ ordering with a party → adding friends from that party and connecting with them

Critique

- #2: Match Between the System and the Real World & #4: Consistency and Standards
  - Messaging only goes to restaurants (tracks past orders)
  - Map doesn’t work the same as most digital maps
  - No discovery & outdated promotions
- #8: Aesthetic & Minimalist Design
  - Green coloring for discounts outside of the main blue color scheme, out of place and off putting, very different from typical food apps

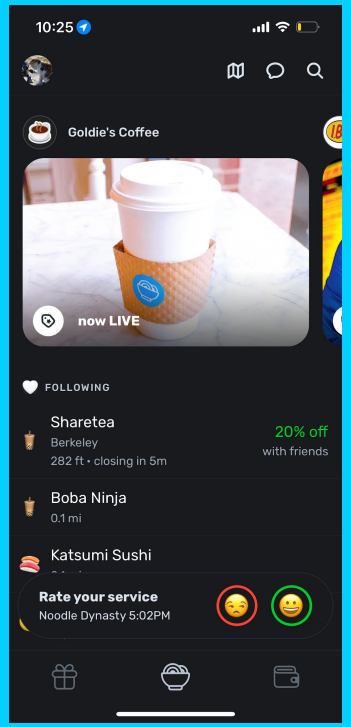
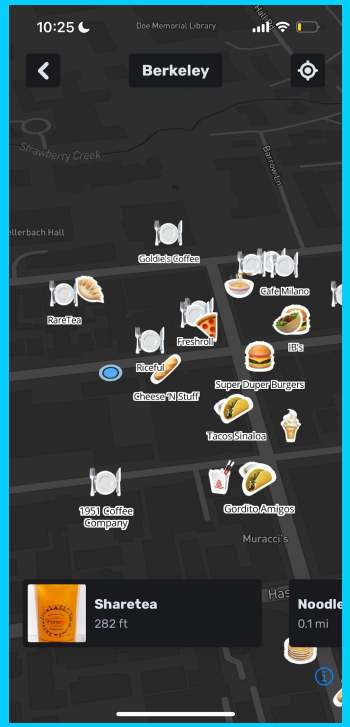
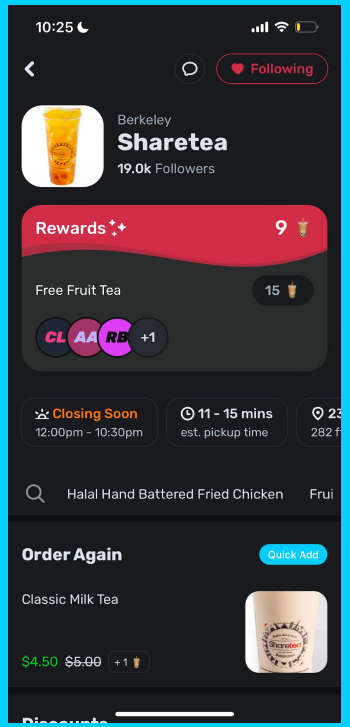
Discovery Critique





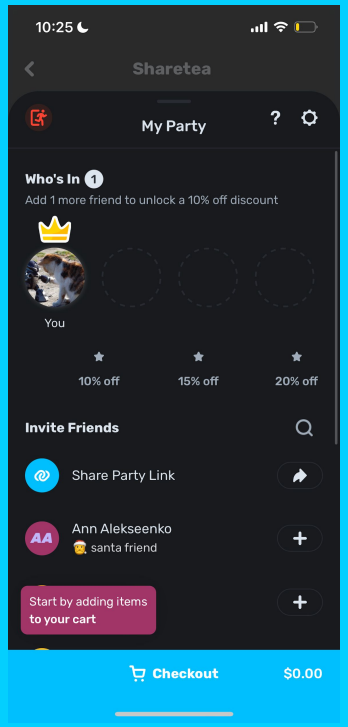
- The promotions section has outdated discounts (up to 3 years ago)
- The maps section is hard to locate (misleading emoji)
  - Large emojis describing the restaurant that makes the map unreadable
- Trending page is hidden (must click search menu)

Select Critique



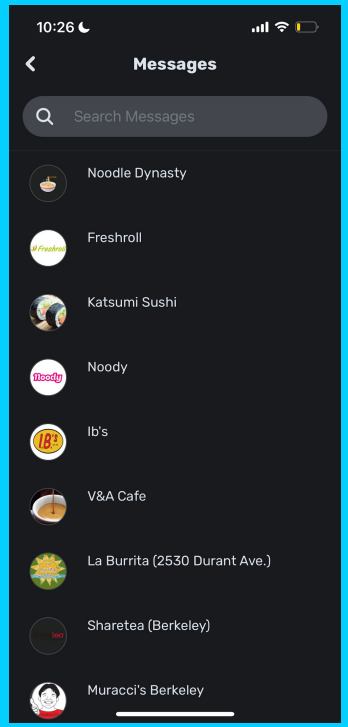
- Difficult to see how close one is to free rewards
- Promotions are not advertised

Join Party & Order Critique



- Only able to join parties with a direct invite (through Snackpass or a link)
- Unable to meet new people and form friendships through parties

Make Friends Critique



- Only able to direct message restaurants instead of people
- Prevents the ability to make new friends through Snackpass

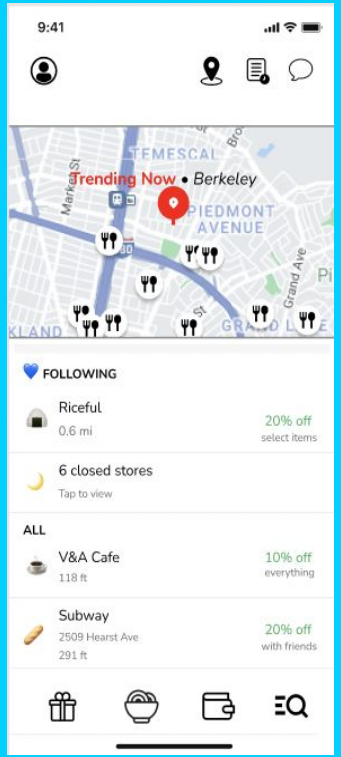
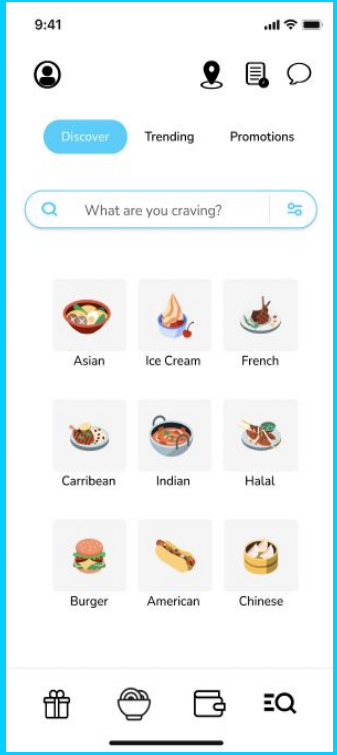
Make Friends

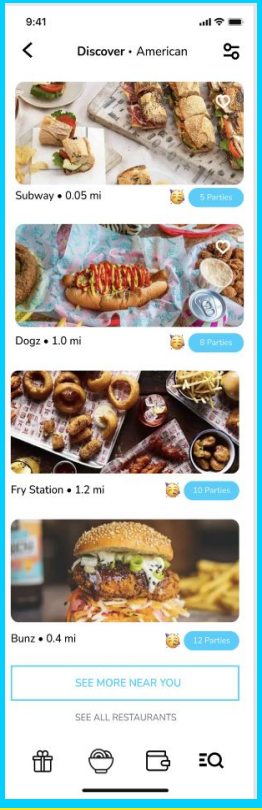
Discovery Redesign





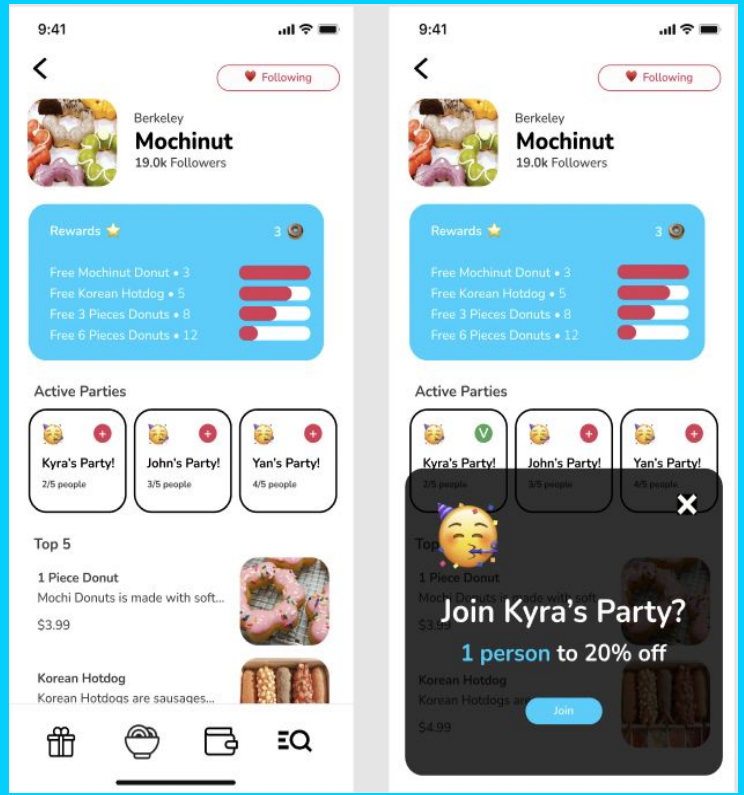
- Able to easily locate and access the map of nearby restaurants
- Google Maps integration to help with navigating to new locations
- Different categories: Discover, Trending, Promotions

Select Redesign



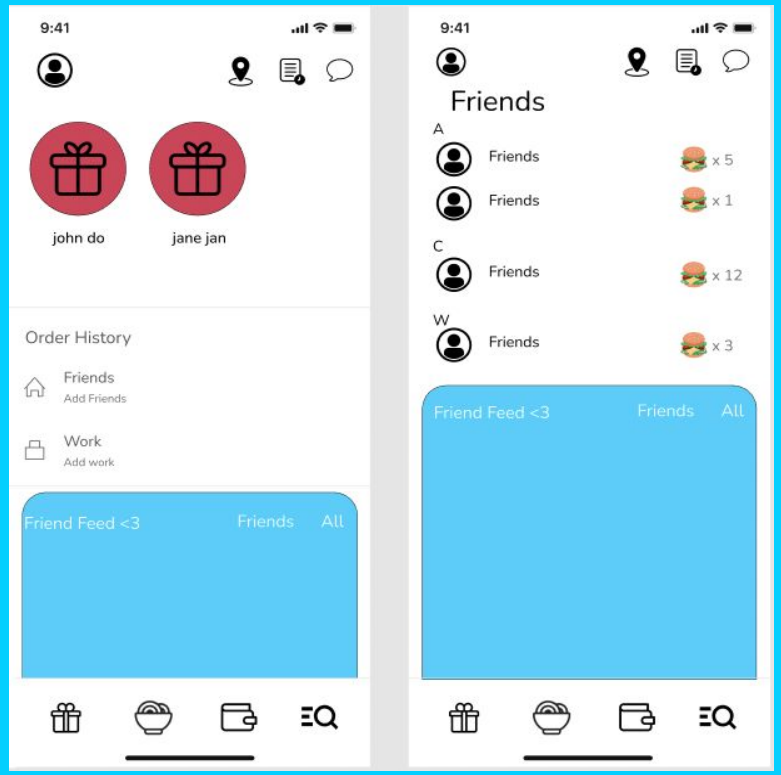
- Able to filter featured restaurants by different factors such as cuisine, location, etc
- Lengthy description of each restaurant and its available promotions

Join Party & Order Redesign



- Easily see how close one is to obtaining a free reward
- Displays active parties (public) and the ability to join them
- Displays the benefit of joining an active party (ex: discount)

Make Friends Redesign



- Friends tab shows how many “gifts” they have exchanged between you
- Smaller friend feed
  - More important to access friends to send gifts to
